

Long night of the museums

Saturday 17 March 2007

For one night only, the doors of some of the Rhein-Neckar Triangle's best museums and galleries will be open from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. for the 9th annual "Lange Nacht der Museen". Sponsored by the magazine MEIER and for only 13 Euro, you can travel on the elaborate public transportation network to visit museums, galleries concerts and other performances in Mannheim, Heidelberg and Ludwigshafen.

Over 107 stations are available this year - more than any year previously. Guests will get a chance to visit the newly renovated Mannheim castle prior to its official re-opening later this spring. The University of Heidelberg library will also open its doors for visitors to view the original handwriting of the world-famous "Codex Manesse". In Ludwigshafen, you can see a spectacular multimedia indoor and outdoor installation on the 88m large HemshofCenter. Here you will get an exclusive preview of some of the works which will be displayed at the Mannheim, Heidelberg, Ludwigshafen international photo festival, which will start this fall.

Tickets are 13 Euro in advance, 16 Euro at the door (plus booking fees).
